ENTHUSIASM WAS LACKING

JOHN HERON ADDRESSED SMALL MEETING IN FRANK SAT. DAY.

MADE POOR SHOWING

Speech Contained Mainly of an Account of What He Did Not Do at Ottawa.

Called to Get Endorsement of His Own Party, That is Opposed.

John Heron, candidate of the conservative party made his appearance in The Pass Saturday evening last and held his first meeting in Frank. There was but a small turn out and the greeting accorded the candidate was wholly lacking in that warmth which holds out encouragement. There was almost no applause and the speech was received almost with indifference.

Mr. Heron devoted the greater part of his time to telling the audience what he was not able to accomplish for the constituency. Incidentally, he put himself in a very bad light by an attempt to deal unfairly with his opponent, Mr. McDonald.

Mr. Heron began by acknowledging his own lack of influence in the House of Commons and said he supposed it was to be expected that an opposition member should not receive much consideration.

Mr. Heron complained of the attitude of the newspapers of the district toward him and charged broadly that all the more influential ones, not only of this riding but of all Canada had either been bought up or subsidized to oppose him and his party.

Dealing with his record in the House Mr. Heron claimed that the fact that the pre-emption clause in the land bill was made operative as far west as the C. & E. railroad, was due to his efforts.

He had also produced a resolution to provide that laborers might satisfy home-coming requirements by having their families live on the land but had been unable to get but one other member to support it.

He had also instigated the lumber combine inquiry which he felt had resulted in much good to the west. He also cited several other matters in which he had sought to secure amendments to various laws but the government had declined to accept his views and in no instance had he been able to enlist the support of his party to the extent of more than one member.

The All Red Route he conceived to be a scheme to burden the people with taxation to afford a few rich the privilege of traveling around the world in quick time.

The Hudson Bay railroad was a matter his own party advocated.

Referring to the movement for government operated elevators, he said a committee of liberal farmers visited Ottawa to interest the government in the scheme but without success.

In devoting some time to a criticism of the government's policy of building railroads for the west, Mr. Heron referred to the Crow's Nest Pass branch of the C.P.R. The chief fault he had to find with the latter was that the government gave a subsidy of $11,000 a mile and that was the total cost of building the road.

In explaining his vote against the V.V.R.R. he said his action had been based on a desire to preserve the Canadian Market for the Canadian producer.

In dealing with closed land leases, Mr. Heron referred to the Glenora ranch in which A. B. McDonald is a small shareholder, as furnishing an instance in which a liberal party man was favored by the government because his company under its lease, was entitled to buy a large area at a dollar an acre.

He spoke of Mr. McDonald's action as the other way in the ranch and on being asked by an auditor this position, declared that he did not know.

Mr. Heron has been electioneering during the week in the different camps and spoke Tuesday evening at Blairmore and at Coleman last evening.

SOME OBSERVATIONS ON THE CAMPAIGN

In another column will be found the gist of the remarks of John Heron, candidate of the conservative party in this campaign. Among other things, Mr. Heron refers to the fact that practically every newspaper in Macleod constituency is opposing him and he assumes that the reason therefor is that they have either all been bought up or are subsidized. Suppose now, that it was the other way around and that all the papers were supporting Mr. Heron. Would it be worth while to be a little bit or it would sound well if Mr. McDonald charged that Mr. Heron had either bought up or subsidized them all.

It is not singular that there should not be a single newspaper favoring the liberal party that does so from honest convictions? Of course the fact is that the newspapers are supporting Mr. McDonald because they believe Mr. Heron has not been an effective member and because they believe Mr. McDonald will be. But is it not a significant fact that there is only one newspaper in the whole constituency supporting Mr. Heron?

Mr. Heron claimed that it was due to his efforts that the pre-emption clause of the land bill was made operative as far west as the C. & E. Minister of the Interior Frank Oliver says that the only reason why the clause did not extend all the way to the mountains was due to the opposition of the conservatives. Whom shall we believe, that great man of the people, Frank Oliver or the man who has proven himself capable of uttering a deliberate falsehood on a public platform.

Mr. Heron introduced a resolution to provide a clause in the land bill to enable laborers to satisfy home-coming requirements by having their families live on the land. The Frank Paper can afford some enlightenment on this subject as it is in possession of Mr. Oliver's views. Mr. Oliver is in sympathy with the idea but it is the policy of the administration to secure residence on land rather than cultivation as a condition for the privilege of peopling and developing new country.

If the residence duty were to be dispensed with and only quasi residence required the chances are that in very few instances would the family finally become farmers and live on the land and the benefit to the nation aimed at in the homestead law would in very great measure be lost. As it is, the laborer is able to work at anything he desires six months in the year and if with that he can thus earn and what he can make by cultivating his farm in the summer he cannot live, you may depend upon it he is not going to make much of a farmer and does not want land very badly. However, this is not saying that Mr. Oliver, whose sympathies are with the worker, may not in future find a means of still further lightening the duties of the poor man who takes a homestead.

The All Red Route Mr. Heron says is a rich man's plaything and no one else is going to benefit from it. Now there is a declaration of your life to come from a man big enough to sit in the House of Commons. In the utterance of that remarkable expression of opinion Poor Old Mr. Heron, as he must now be known, painted of himself a spectacle so pitiful that even his worst enemy might have wished him to have been preserved from it. By it he has qualified for the senate which is said to be his ambition if the conservatives ever get in.

Of course a school boy knows that the purpose of the All Red Route is to turn the commerce of the world, a great portion of it, through Canada's arteries of trade and that it is accomplished in a small measure, the All Red Route will be something besides a rich man's plaything, designed to enable him to travel around the world in a hurry.

BIG MEETING FOR McDONALD

MOST ENTHUSIASTIC POLITICAL GATHERING EVER HELD HERE.

TWO FINE SPEECHES

Historic Cushing Made Telling Argument on National Issues While Mr. Brown Exposed Candidate Heron's Placidity and Politics.

The greatest political gathering ever held in Frank was that which greeted Minister of Public Works W. H. Cushing and F. W. Brown of Edmonton at School Hall last evening at a meeting held in the interest of A. B. McDonald, liberal candidate. That Frank is certainly liberal and will give Mr. McDonald a big margin was made manifest by the fact that the attendance at the meeting was the largest in the history of political meetings in Frank and by the further fact that enthusiasm was at concert pitch from the first mention of Mr. McDonald's name to the utterance of the last syllable by the speakers. A special train brought a crowd of about sixty people from Little to attest to the feeling in that camp.

Mr. Cushing who was in fine form, addressed himself wholly to national issues, pointing to the great strides Canada has made during the liberal administration of the past twelve years. Referring to an assertion generally made by conservative speakers, that the prosperity that has prevailed under liberal rule would have come under the rule of any party and that the government had nothing to do with it, Mr. Cushing pointed to the unquestioned fact that it did not prevail before the liberals came into power and said it was the changing the management of a business that had all a lot to do with poor management. By a salubrious and progressive management, as he said, at its best would be built up again. It was simply a matter of good business and a far better management of the affairs of the country under the liberals had produced the prosperity. He also pointed to the small immigration prior to 1891 and to that of last year, showing a contrast of more than 200,000 people, sufficient in itself to bring a large measure of prosperity to any country, and that he said was solely due to the liberal government. And so it had been in the matter of providing transportation facilities and the management of all their extensive branches of government.

During the course of Mr. Cushing's remarks, Carl Baumann thought to trouble him with inquiries, first asking about graft charges.

Mr. Cushing replied that since the charges of misconduct on the part of the government were first started by the conservatives, not an instance has occurred of a conservative member of the house availing himself of his privilege of laying charges in the house and attempting to prove them, which he took to be good evidence that the charges are mere insinuations made for political purposes and having no truth behind them.

"It has been a campaign of slander and character assassination," said Mr. Cushing "and is an unworthy means of trying to gain political advantage for when you take a man's character away you take about all he has in this world."

"What if he has any?" inquired Baumann.

"That's your fault," calmly replied Mr. Cushing with ready wit.

The answer was so apt and so fitting in view of the personality of the questioner that the crowd fairly howled with delight. That ended Baumann's heckling.

Mr. Cushing was obliged to curtail his speech to catch a train so he had to be in Calgary to-day and he took leave of the audience, telling them that if they applied the same rule to their voting that they did to business he was satisfied they would elect their boldest Mr. McDonald.

The town of Hillcrest is situated within less than one mile of the main entrance of the Frank mine, within three-quarters of a mile of the Bellview mine, within three-quarters of a mile of the Maple Leaf mine, within three-quarters of a mile of the Litch Collieries and within one-half mile of the Hillcrest mine.

MR. HERRON'S CASE.

John Herron presented his case to the electors of Frank Saturday evening in a lengthy discourse. He did not make a strong case and it is very doubtful if he made a friend by it, mainly for two reasons, viz: That nearly the whole tenor of his argument substantiated and verified the claim The Frank Paper has made all along that being in the opposition, he could not hope to render the services the people expect of him and secondly, that he proved himself an insincere man by, as this paper believes, uttering what he knew at the time to be an unqualified falsehood for no other reason than to misrepresent his opponent, Mr. McDonald. It is an unpleasant thing to make such a charge against a man holding the exalted position of Mr. Herron but it was deliberate and obviously intentional and his must be the responsibility.

Mr. Herron complained bitterly of what he called falsehoods and slander uttered against him by the press of the constituency yet in dealing with his opponent he justified all that the newspapers opposing him have said by deliberately and premeditatedly attempting to place Mr. McDonald in a false light. The matter in question related to McDonald's connection with closed grazing leases. Mr. Herron read a list of three closed grazing leases, one of which was that of the Glenrarry ranch and stated that Mr. McDonald was interested in the lease, by which his company had the right to purchase from the government at a dollar an acre, a large tract of valuable land. He cited this as a case of government favoritism to a member of the liberal party. He mentioned Messrs McKenzie and Mann as the other owners in the lease and an auditor asked what was the politics of the latter two gentlemen. Mr. Herron tried to evade the question and was then asked this question: "Do you not know they are conservatives?" Mr. Herron replied flatly that he did not. The Frank Paper does not believe there is a person in the whole constituency of Macleod who does not believe that Mr. Herron knows both Messrs McKenzie and Mann and knows that they have always been the staunch kind of conservatives. But he wanted to make it appear that Mr. McDonald had received some unwarranted favoritism from the government and it would have spoiled his case to have admitted that his associates were among the most prominent conservatives in the country.

In his next breath Mr. Herron disproved his own charge of government favoritism to liberals by declaring that McKenzie and Mann had received more favors from the government in the past year than any other corporation in Canada.

Mr. Herron's lack of effectiveness as a member is best illustrated by his own argument on the platform. He opened his remarks by admitting that an opposition member does not get much consideration at Ottawa and that of course is as it should be. The party that is able to secure a majority in the house is of course the party that should dominate for a majority rule is the basic principle of our government. If the majority of the people of Canada believed the policies of the conservative party are best, they would give that party a majority in the house and the very fact that they did not give the conservative party a majority in the house furnishes the proof that the majority of the people of Canada desire that the policies of the liberal party shall prevail.

And Mr. Herron complained feelingly as if he felt himself greatly injured because the party which the people had given a majority in the elections would not permit his measure to prevail. In dwelling upon his record in the house, Mr. Herron was not able to point to but one instance in which he had been able to have a motion carried. That was in relation to the lumber combine inquiry. The government had consented to the adoption of his resolution in that case. And therein Mr. Herron confessed the fairness and broadness of the government in being willing to allow a motion of the kind, proposed by an opposition member, to go through. And why did the government do it? Simply because it was in line with the policies of the government. Had other efforts of Mr. Herron been in line with the policies which the majority of the people of Canada had by their votes declared in favor of, he would have been more successful.

Mr. Herron cited instances after instance in which he had brought in motions or resolutions. Among them was his resolution to provide for a regulation permitting laboring men to satisfy homestead requirements by having their families live on the land. In this as in every other instance, he said he could get but one other member of the house to join him. That was Mr. Herron's greatest confession of weakness. One auditor who does not happen to have a vote and is not much interested one way or the other, remarked sententiously: "He does not seem to have much pull or influence at Ottawa even with his own party." And that was the thought that impressed itself on the mind of everyone. From Mr. Herron's own admissions, he was not able to impress the government with the soundness of the things he sought to do and the government therefore declined to accept his motions and at the same time he did not have sufficient pull among his own party members to enlist their support. Look at it any way you choose, he was ineffective.

And another thought that aroused was, that even if Mr. Herron's party were to be returned, his policies would not be adopted and put into effect as he himself showed when he said he was never able to get but one member of his own party to support him in any movement he undertook.

Mr. Herron's whole exposition of his own record was such as to forebode the logic of the contention of this paper that it is not profitable to send an opposition member to Ottawa and that if we hope to realize any concrete results from the efforts of our member in behalf of our district we must send a member who will be in sympathy with the government who will uphold the measures desired for the benefit of the west in-tend consistently opposing them and doing nothing during his entire four years term but draw salary and play politics preparatory to his next appeal to his constituency.

SOME GOOD REASONS.

Some of the reasons why Sir Wilfrid Laurier should be allowed to finish his work, are enumerated by the Ottawa Free Press.

Because the liberal party has the only modern National Policy of progress.

It has proved its worth during its twelve years of administration through its development of the country's resources.

It has increased the country's population ten times more rapidly than did its predecessors, settling most of them upon the land and thus opening up new markets for the factories of the east.

It has built, and is building, rail ways.

It has deepened the canals.

It has made the St. Lawrence a lighted street.

It has given the people work, doubling the opportunities of our young men in their own country and thus keeping them at home.

It has dispelled the dark past and inaugurated a new national optimism.

It has given Canada more substantial legislation along the lines of social reform than any other government in Canada's history.

It has had a series of financial successes unparalleled in the country's annals.

It is building a new transcontinental railway which is bound to have tremendous effect upon the development of the dominion.

It increased the country's trade $275,000,000 in eleven years.

It has developed the commerce between Canada and the mother country at a rate of increase eleven times greater than during the conservative regime.

Eugene Schnurr, official enumerator to prepare the voting list for the coming election, is busily engaged on the work. As it will be a difficult task to personally visit every voter in the time that remains and in order that every person having a right to vote may have the opportunity to get on the list, Mr. Schnurr will have the list at liberal headquarters every evening from 8 to 9 o'clock when any person wishing to do so may call and be enrolled. Beginning next Monday, the list will also be open at A. V. Lang's store during the greater part of each day. The Canadian-American company is in receipt of the foundation plans for the light station and work on the foundations and the building to house the dynamo will begin at once. The plant will be located alongside the tipples and power will be supplied by the tipple boilers. The plant is en route here and the company hopes to have it in operation in about six weeks.

HEALTH Without MEDICINE

HEALTH CAN BE SAVED BY THIS NEW METHOD

All weakness is alike to OXYDONOR
It applies to all cases no matter what the form of disease may be.
The human body is revitalized by oxygen from the air.
No one can spare Oxydonor rightly without benefit.
No one is any longer in any form of disease until the prime conditions of life are lost by the irreparable destruction of some vital organ.
Oxygenation of the whole organism through the use of Oxydonor reaches and remedies all difficulties in any diseased condition as long as it is applied early enough. It has brought health and happiness to scores of miserable sufferers from Rheumatism (Gout), Inflammation, Neuritis, Nervous troubles (Bright's Disease, Catarrh, Insomnia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Long Trouble, Erysipelas, Liver, Kidney, Bladder and Stomach troubles, Parapneumonia, Leptospira, Brucellosis, Paratyphoid, Cholera, Typhoid, Typhus, Tuberculosis, Cancer, etc.).

Mrs. J. H. Neapolis, Alta., writes: "Received the Oxydonor and find it a source of great relief, although I have had it hardly a month. The first night I slept and rested better than for weeks and my bowels have moved regularly every morning while I used the Oxydonor during the night."

My general health is greatly improved. For years I have been compelled to take a physic every day and been subject to severe headaches and nervousness, but find them all disappearing and how thankful I am! My children say I look ten years younger, and I was just sixty-nine years old the 5th of May.
